Centre For Advocacy In Mental Health (CAMH)	The CAMH strives, through its work, to research and communicate the main message that mental health and overall well being is social and environmental. The increase in 'mental illness' is indicative of the failure of the primary health care system in India. Many mental health problems would resolve if there was no poverty, food insufficiency or malnutrition, and people received excellent comprehensive health care at the doorstep, as promised by the Alma Ata Declaration. The remaining mental health problems would resolve if we had stronger and more compassionate social fabrics where relationships are nurtured and living environments are conflict free. The CAMH spreads the message of "Peaceful families, Peaceful neighbourhoods" as the foundation for good mental health. The CAMH is led by a survivor of the Indian mental asylums. The Center is inspired by the strengths and resiliences of those living with or who have survived psychosocial disability. The Center includes people who are users and / or survivors of psychiatry in different capacities (employment, volunteering, peer support services, fellowships on self advocacy, trainers, and contributors to our various partnerships, projects and activities).	13/09/2011	Mumbai	Maharashtra	B1/11,B/12,6th Floor,Konark Pooram, Kondhawa,Pune-411048	020-6837644/685	wamhc@vsnl.net
